Other Questions

You may find that there are additional questions within the application which are specific to the post you are applying for. Please answer all questions clearly.

The Health Board recognises that language and language choice are linked to the provision of good quality services in Wales. Consequently, the Health Board is seeking to develop a bilingual service which offers effective and meaningful language choice to those who access the service. In order to meet its statutory obligation in relation to the Welsh Language Act, the Health Board is committed to promoting and facilitating the use of Welsh.

In order to assist us in monitoring the number of Welsh speaking applicants and new staff joining the Health Board, you are asked to tell us if you speak another language, in addition to English.

However, this question does not only apply to Welsh speakers, but is important if the ability to speak another language is essential to the post for which you are applying.

Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974

Under the provisions of the above Act, where an employee will have regular access to patients who are in receipt of healthcare services, applicants must declare all criminal convictions, cautions, reprimands and final warnings, regardless of whether they are unspent or spent.

However, this does not mean that possession of a criminal record is necessarily a bar to employment with the Health Board. It is not.

In deciding whether an individual is suitable for a post, consideration will be given to the nature and seriousness of the offence, and to the nature of the work that an individual would be required to undertake in that role. This is done following a full assessment of an applicant's relevant skills, experience, qualifications and ability to do the job.

You are advised therefore to give full details on your application form of any conviction, caution, reprimand or bind over, no matter how long ago they happened. Please note that in the case where an applicant is appointed to a post and it is later found that they have failed to disclose information relating to a conviction or caution, this could result in disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal by the Health Board.

Disclosure & Barring Service (formerly Criminal Records Bureau) Check

Under the provisions of the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974, Police Act 1997, Protection of Children Act 1999 and the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000, the Health Board has a duty to carry out police checks (disclosure) on all prospective employees who will have regular contact with children or vulnerable adults, in the course of their duties.

This check is necessary to ensure that new employees of the Health Board have not been disqualified from working with children or have committed a criminal offence, which renders them unsuitable to work with vulnerable adults. Applicants who have been disqualified from working with children should note that it is a criminal offence for them to apply for a position that will require them to have contact with children.

Therefore, if an employee is required to work with children or vulnerable adults, the appointment to the post will be subject to the completion of a satisfactory Disclosure & Barring Service Check. This requirement will be stated on the advert, and / or person specification for the post. You will also be advised of this at interview.

Data Protection

The Health Board is fully aware of, and compliant with the requirements and obligations set out by the Data Protection Act 1998 and the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). The information that you have provided will be treated in the utmost confidence, and will not be used for any purpose other than that stated upon the form, without your prior consent, and will not be disclosed outside the Health Board unless compelled to do so by law.

If you are successful in your application for a post, the information that you have provided in your application form will be held on file for the duration of your employment.

However, if you are unsuccessful, your application will be held on file for a period of 12 months, after which it will be destroyed. During this period, your application may be put forward for consideration for other suitable, similar posts within the Health Board. It is important that you tell us on your application for if you do not wish for this to happen.

Declaration

You must ensure that all of the information provided on the form is true and accurate. Where an applicant is found to have provided false information on their application form, it could result in them being disqualified from the selection process or it could result in disciplinary action, if the matter comes to light at a later date.
